

Nipah scare in Kerala, 1 dead

SHINE JACOB
Chennai, 5 September

Still reeling from the second wave of Covid-19, Kerala received yet another health scare as a 12-year-old boy died after testing positive for Nipah virus in Kozhikode on Sunday. Two health workers in contact with the boy developed symptoms of the virus. The Centre has rushed a team of National Centre for Disease Control (NCDC) to provide technical aid to the state health department. Sources in the state health department said the authorities were familiar with the protocols to be followed and the situation was unlikely to worsen. State health minister Veena George said the two infected persons were part of 20 high-risk contacts of the deceased. "There is nothing to worry about. The health department is closely following up on the situation," George said. The state government has already formed separate teams for contact tracing and taken steps to isolate primary contacts. Police have also cordoned off about 3 kilometres around the boy's house and a health alert has been declared in the district. Meanwhile, the state continued to report a lion's share of the country's fresh Covid-19 cases. While India reported 42,766 new Covid-19 cases on Sunday, 29,682 of these were in Kerala alone.

RSS balm for Infosys after Panchajanya's diatribe

"There may be some issues regarding the portal operated by Infosys but the articles published in this context in Panchajanya are the personal views of the author. Panchajanya is not a mouthpiece of the RSS and the said article or opinions expressed in it should not be linked with the Sangh," RSS communications chief Sunil Ambekar added.

Sangh insiders said the attack on Infosys may have been motivated by its workers and activists who see themselves as "more Hindu" than some members of the government. After Ambekar's clarification, there was no response from Panchajanya or others on the board of Bharat Prakashan, the company that is the printer and publisher of Panchajanya, despite several messages. On Saturday, PTI reported Panchajanya editor Hitesh Shankar as saying that Infosys is a big firm and very crucial works were given to it by the government based on its credibility.

With glitches continuing on the I-T Department's new e-filing portal, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman had given project vendor Infosys time until September 15 to resolve issues being faced by taxpayers.

A ginger group that has dedicated itself to purging the system of persons who have had linkages with past Congress and Left-influenced regimes is likely responsible for the attack on Infosys, insiders said. "In the past there have been instances of this group simply posting past comments of people who have been appointed to important positions. Some of these campaigns have resulted in appointees resigning in days. Itna wicket gir gaye to unhe laga, chalo, koi bada wicket giraayen (After they managed to get many wickets, they may have thought, let's try for a big one)," said an activist.

"The fact that the BJP lauds and grants lucrative government posts to those spewing venom against it 24x7 should speak volumes about how little the party cares about its followers and workers. Any other party of Left-liberal institutions will never even give the courtesy of hearing those from the opposite end of the spectrum, forget about giving out a high-paying job" said one tweet from the group.

It is not clear at what level the government complained to the Sangh, eliciting a response on the Infosys matter. "It might have been B L Santhoshji (organising secretary who is from Karnataka), or someone at an even higher level. It is also possible that someone spoke to Mohanji (Mohan Bhagwat, RSS chief). We don't know. The motivation behind the Panchajanya article was misuse of public money – but also an assertion," said an activist.
